It is doubtful whether Congress can eal with this important personnel problem in the annual appropriation bill, so that it will probably have to be treated in a special act, but there is so much legislation which must go thru this session that the personnel bill will have little show.

The troublestine quarrel between the staff and the line in the management of Navy Yards remains unsettled by the mayal appropriation bill. The Bureaus of Construction and Repair and of Steam Engineering are to share in the management and inspection of construction work for a year, as Secretary Meyer planned they should, but the House refuses to commit itself to that plan, and allows him a year only for purposes of trial and for showing the merits of the new scheme. It developed during hearings of quite two months that the House Naval Committee was, on the whole, hostile to the new organ-ization, altho it is unwilling to refuse to the Secretary the necessary authority to transfer appropriations to the Bureau transfer appropriations to the Bureau A measure repealing a section of the of Steam Engineering, where these are Revised Statutes providing for the imnecessary for the new activities of the Steam Engineering Bureau at the Navy

Consequently with all the great prog-ress the Department is making with the Navy, there are many Administration obstacles in the way. Next Winter in-evitably there will be a great controversy as to whether Secretary Meyer has made good with reorganization and whether it would not be preferable to return to the Newberry plan of managstructors have entire charge of the constructors have entire charge of the con-struction of the hulls and machinery of war crafts.

Trouble in the Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps, a compact and to suspects. Very efficient arm of the Naval Service. Senator D is also involved in a quarrel of no small significance. The Corps has had to fight so much for its own organization that it has rarely shown any dissensions in its own ranks. Its head for a number of years has been Maj.-Gen. George F. Elliott, officially known as Command-He has a small staff corps in Washington, and with one of these staff officers, Col. Charles H. Laucheimer, officers, Col. Charles H. Laucheimer, Depew, responding, expressed the re-who is Adjutant and Inspector, the Commandant is at serious odds.

The details of their troubles have leaked out slowly. Some weeks ago Gen. Elliott used violent language to Col. Laucheimer, to which the latter took exception. He reported Gen. Elfliott to the Secretary of the Navy, an unusual thing, but something that sub-ordinate officers when thus aggrieved always have the right to do. Gen. Elliott also suspended Col. Mr. Owen addressed the Senate on his amendment to the postal savings able to retire soon and allow the Presiable to retire soon and allow the Fresh dent to appoint his successor. The pressing of the case between him and Col. Laucheimer is thought to have been encouraged with the object of bringing the General's conduct of his bringing the General's conduct of his order into prominence with the idea that it might force him to retire. The Commandant will have to retire within a year, as he reaches the retiring bolls, pimples, scrofulous sores, eczema age of 64 for the Marine Corps within those of the Army, serve two years longer than do Navy officers before going on the retired list. That has en-couraged subordinate officers of the Ma-of cures, is Corps to press the case against Gen. Elliott, as he could retire under the 40 years' service clause at once. His opponents claim that his retirement would be for the good of the service, because it would make feasible imme diately not only the nomination of a new Commandant, but a reorganization of the Corps and the adoption of more efficient methods in its administration and in the transaction of its business. The verdict of the court of inquiry promises to have some bearing, at least indirectly, on that point.

Thru the Stone River Campaign and Winter Quarters

THE SECOND volume of the Si Klegg series, which is now in press and will shortly appear, takes Si and his partner, Shorty, thru the terrific battle of Stone River, and then thru their Winter camp at Murfreesboro, With the industry and ingenuity characteristic of soldiers, they fixed some highly interesting but wholly unexpected experiences, and the boys, after their kind, foraged, scouted, skirmished and worked on the fortifications, making it generally lively all around them wherever they went or whatever they wer doing. It is all extremely vivid and wonderfully true to life, with the humorous, doing. It is all extremely vivid and wonderfully true to life, with the humorous, serious and pathetic mingled in the proportions of actual history.

This is one of the most popular of the series, and was pronounced by no less authority than Gen. Lew Wallace to be the "true idyl of the war." Deacon Klegg is a time specimen of the solid, substantial Union men of the North who led God-fearing, self-respecting, upright, useful lives and sent their sons to the army to light for the eternal principles of right and discharge their patriotle duty to the country. The volume is uniform in appearance and style with the preceding one.
